THE WAR ON THE CORN BORER PEST

Backyard Gardeners Will Be Invited to Join in Making the Campaign a Success

Backyard gardeners are harboring corn borers and making it much harder to control the pest in the adjoining farm lands, according to R. H. Allen, director of the division of plant pest control of the State Department of Agriculture. The efforts of the division have been concentrated very largely on the important task of getting farmers and market gardeners to plow under the corn stubble before Dec. 1 each year as an effective measure of corn borer control. It is apparent that the backyard gardeners are not conforming to the law as they should. A definite drive is being inaugurated to acquaint them with the provisions of the law and to follow it with a careful checkup to see that they conform to it.

Heretofore the division of plant pest control has sent out, through the rural carriers, large numbers of circulars stating the provisions of the law. They have reached a great majority of the farmers and market gardeners in the infested areas, and has resulted in a very general observance of the law. No special provision has been made to reach the backyard gardeners, as the amount of corn they plant is very small and the danger much less than from the larger commercial areas. However, the corn borer moth flies from a mile to five miles ordinarily and has been known to travel 20 miles from where it was hatched. This makes the backyard gardens breeding grounds which may reinfest a considerable area.

This year about 100,000 copies of the law will be sent out to the farmers and market gardeners through the rural carriers. In addition about 50,000 will be distributed to the backyard gardeners by representatives of the Department of Agriculture. These men travel around and wherever they see a backyard garden they will leave a copy of the law. Later in the season a checkup will be made to see whether or not these home gardeners have destroyed the corn stubble in accordance with the provisions of the law.

The law requires that all corn stubble shall be plowed under by Dec. 1 or destroyed in some other effective way. Mr. Allen advocates burning the corn stubble. Such small quantities are grown in these back yards that it will be an easy matter to pull up the stubble and, after letting it dry out a bit, throwing it into the furnace. If this is impractical, the corn stubble should be buried to a depth of not less than six inches.

Hunting Season Started Monday

The hunting season in Massachusetts started Monday. Owing to the fact that the hunting of partridge is forbidden this year and few quail have been in this region in recent years, the prospects for good bags of game did not look very favorable earlier in the year. Woodcock, which have been becoming more plentiful in the county for the past three years, returned in seemingly increased numbers this year and the spirits of the sportsmen have risen accordingly. The cold weather of the past week and the full moon, however, has probably started their flight southward, so that their numbers may be diminished somewhat when the law goes off.

Warnings have been issued in all parts of the State and especially in Franklin county, asking hunters and others going into the woods from now on to be extremely careful in not starting any fires, as the ground is covered with dry leaves, and the long drought of this summer has made everything in the countryside especially inflammable. Any fire started at this time is liable to cause much property loss and entail a great deal of work and expense in getting it under control, and for these reasons the State officials have issued a special appeal for care on the part of the sportsmen.

According to the State laws, it will be legal, commencing on Monday, to shoot two male pheasants in a day and six during the season; five rabbits or two hares each day, and four woodcock or quail in a day, or 20 in a season. Five squirrels in a day or 15 in a season. The hunting of partridge or grouse is prohibited this season.

Cancer Clinic

The next Franklin County cancer clinic will be held at the Farren Memorial hospital Friday, Oct. 25, at 1 p. m. Dr. William Shelden of Boston will be the consultant.

Mrs. Harry W. Doremus

Mrs. Ella Euphemia Doremus (nee Cole), wife of Harry Whitehouse Doremus of 296 Pisk avenue, Westerleigh, Staten Island, N. Y., and East Northfield, Mass., died Oct. 21 at the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Jean Doremus Linscott, Orrs Island, Me., after an illness of over 30 years. She was born in New York city in 1860, the daughter of the late John B. and Maria Barker Cole of Dean street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Doremus was a graduate of Packard Institute, Brooklyn, class of 1889. She was for many years closely identified with religious activities, centering in the Hanson Place Baptist church, Brooklyn, and later with the Deems Memorial church, Westerleigh, Staten Island. At the time of her death, she was a member of the First of the First Baptist church, Montclair, N. J., where she lived for a decade during her later years. Her sterling character and scholarly attainments, coupled with an irrepressibly optimistic spirit, attracted to her a wide circle of friends in many States. She leaves her husband, who is associated with the Guenther-Law advertising agency; a brother, Herbert Milton Cole, editor of the Boston News Bureau, Boston; and four children, Robert Child, a member of the George B. Bright company, refrigeration engineers, Detroit, Mich.; Helen Marguerite, a high school teacher of New York city; Dorothy Cary, executive secretary of the Camp Fire Girls of Greater New York; and Mrs. Jean Doremus Linscott, Orrs Island, Me., a graduate nurse from St. Luke's hospital, New York. Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Greenwood chapel, Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Silver Anniversary of the Founding of Fortnightly

The Silver anniversary of the founding of the Fortnightly, the woman's club of Northfield, was celebrated in a very happy way on the afternoon of Friday, Oct. 18. The president of the club, Mrs. C. H. Webster, opened the meeting, conducting the necessary business. After preliminary remarks, explaining the nature of the meeting, she introduced the first president, Mrs. P. Wood, who received a great ovation. Mrs. Wood gave a brief sketch of the beginning of the club, emphasizing the important part taken by Mrs. Daniel Wilson in its inception and formation. She invited the first secretary, Mrs. Bessie Symonds, to the desk to read the minutes of the first meeting and the roll of the 20 charter members. As each name was called, those present received a spray of blossoms, after which Miss Marion Webster sang "Oh! Memories." Mrs. Fredrika Pentecost Phillips, an honorary member and during its early years a great factor in its welfare, was expected to be present to provide the entertainment, being a reader of great merit, but she was taken suddenly ill and was obliged to cancel the engagement. Mrs. A. G. Moody most generously responded to the call for help, and recited some charming selections from Mrs. Montgomery's poems, which were well received. Mrs. Mildred Addison sang, after which all rose and joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne." Roses were presented to Mrs. Moody and the other performers, including Mrs. Leon Alexander, who, before the meeting and during the reception, played a medley of old familiar tunes arranged by herself.

The presidents, Mrs. N. P. Wood, Mrs. Elliot Brown, Mrs. E. F. Howard, Mrs. C. C. Stockbridge, Mrs. F. H. Doolittle, Mrs. N. A. Lewis, with Mrs. Moody and Mrs. C. H. Webster, were in the receiving line, and received greetings from the large company assembled, under the direction of the ushers, Mrs. Pefferle, Miss Webster, Miss Hollon and Mrs. Wright. After this ceremony all were invited to the adjoining room, where a beautifully decorated table laden with dainties, was in waiting. Mrs. W. W. Coe and Mrs. L. R. Smith poured. The lovely birthday cake with silver decorations and 25 lighted candles was on a side table, and Mrs. Wood cut the cake after blowing out the candles. This meeting brought the largest number ever assembled, it being regretted that two ex-presidents, Mrs. T. R. Callender and Miss McDonald, were very represented by letters of greeting. The club, after 25 years, is federated and very prosperous.

"Broadway" to be at the Garden Theatre

No less an institution than the University of Southern California has discovered in "Broadway," the all-dialogue Universal super-production starring Glenn Tryon with Evelyn Brent, which is coming to the Garden theatre Saturday, a subject for class study. As a part of their instruction in the regular course of photoplay appreciation at the university, the students use the largest set ever constructed for a motion picture anywhere in the world—the huge Paradise Night Club. Special photographs of all angles of the structure, especially made to illustrate its many dazzling beautiful features and also the methods by which it was lighted, were turned over to the university authorities at their request for use in classes.

Great scientific and engineering interest is attached to the lighting of this set because of the difficulties which had to be overcome in order that the entire interior of the Paradise Club might be illuminated from above. This was necessary so that the entire scene could be photographed as a whole, without floor lights being used. Not only was this of vital importance, but it was determined, too, that for the first time in film history only incandescent lights should be used, eliminating altogether the arcs which hitherto always have been used either exclusively or in combination with incandescents.

Auto Goes Over Railroad Bridge

An automobile operated by Verto Collins of Sunapee, N. H., was badly wrecked early Sunday morning on the Bernardston-Northfield highway when it crashed through the railing on the overhead bridge and landed some 30 feet below, partly on the Boston and Maine railroad tracks. Collins and a companion, Ashdun Young of Newport, N. H., were rushed to the Greenfield Diagnostic clinic, where it was found the former had sustained a severe gash on his head. Young was not seriously injured. Patrolman George H. Carter of the State police patrol at Shelburne Falls investigated the accident.

They made plans for the November meet, when they will have parliamentary drill and sew for Christmas boxes. The events of Monday evening were of Halloween festivities. The 31 present came dressed as ghosts and witches. The Darby barn was the scene, with trails which were followed through cellars, fields and nearby cemetery, with thrills many. The usual games of this holiday were enjoyed in the barn, after which apples, cakes, fruit jelly and coffee were dispensed. Rowe Man Was Found Dead

Solomon Granger, 75, who for years has lived alone on the Zoar-Rowe road at the top of the mountain, was found dead Wednesday at his home by Gerald Truesdell and Ellsworth Veber of Rowe, who broke open the door after the elderly man had failed to respond to their calls. Granger was on the couch when found, and Medical Examiner H. B. Marble, who was called, declared death due to natural causes. The discovery of the body resulted from two previous visits made by Truesdell and Veber to the Granger home on Saturday and Sunday. On both occasions they found the house locked.

Knowing that the man had been ill last week they returned today and forced an entrance to the house. Mr. Granger was a native of Rowe and has never been married. For many years he was actively engaged in farming, but after retiring from active work moved to the one and a half story house owned by a resident of Zoar, where his body was found. A brother died several years ago and efforts are now being made to learn the whereabouts of any of his other relatives. Granger was widely known in this section.

She Moved a Creek

Women tackle anything nowadays. That they contribute the great new army of the unafraid is shown by a story that has reached official Washington. Mrs. Woolwine is a progressive farmer at Cameron, Missouri. She had a fine piece of bottom land in a creek valley, where she was able to raise prize-winning blue-grass seed. The only trouble was that the creek which meandered slowly across the flat plain became swollen at seasons of high water, flooded the rich field and destroyed the crop. Instead of standing by and bemoaning her hard luck, Mrs. Woolwine decided to remove the menace, so she consulted an explosives expert, and under his direction and with the assistance of two hired men, she had the channel of the troublesome creek altered so that the stream flowed in a straight line.

Mrs. Woolwine repeats that she is very much pleased with the behavior of agricultural explosives, which took two bends, each a half a mile long, out of the creek, thereby adding several valuable acres to her field and lessening the dangers from future floods. This wise woman of Missouri will be emulated by some of her neighbors who are preparing to improve much of the valley land near Cameron.

PODOLSKY CONCERT ARTISTS ARE GOOD

Legion Furnishes Musical Treat of High Order to Towns- people

Music lovers enjoyed a rare treat with the Podolsky Concert Artists at the Town hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion. The program was long and varied, suiting all tastes and giving opportunity to this charming trio to demonstrate both their artistic excellence and versatility. Vital Podolsky opened with a Grand Fantasia of Verdi's Il Trovatore, including a special transcription and cadenza by Singelleux, at once showing mastery of the violin and a unique interpretation of his theme. Another splendid number was Sir Arthur Sullivan's Lost Chord.

Mrs. Helen Breios Todd sang many pleasing numbers, including Burchell's Song of the Clock and Carrie Jacob Bond's Little Bit of Honey. Her voice is both rich in tone and deep in interpretation. Mrs. Todd was head of the voice department in Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and has broadcasted through WOS, Jefferson City, as well as sang as chorus contralto and in concerts in Chicago and Pittsburgh.

Miss Sara Miller, pianist, was marvelous in both her own numbers and in the accompaniments. Her rendition of Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody was delightful. Miss Miller studied at the New England Conservatory under Louis Cornell and has taught in the public schools as well as played in concerts in and around Boston.

Mr. Podolsky is to be congratulated both upon his own musical skill and dexterity as well as upon the associates he has selected. The little concert company will surely make friends and give rich treats of music wherever they may go.

Airport News And Notes

The great need of the airport now seems to be a resident pilot, with his own plane; like Joe Baltrun at Le Fleur field, Northampton, or Bud Russell at the Athol-Orange airport. Of course, both of these pilots are willing to come over for a day or two now and then, as they can spare the time; but, as a matter of fact, their own fields have the first claim upon their services and need them about all the time.

It is estimated that our field is now losing over $500 per week for the pilot (which would mean $50 per week on the usual percentage for the field) through not having its own pilot and plane. Of course, we could easily have the "barn-stormer" type of planes and pilot and have all kinds of applications from such, but it is not intended to run any unnecessary risks and only licensed planes and licensed pilots of the best kind will be permitted to fly from the Northfield airport.

Needless to say, efforts are being put forth to have our own pilot and plane and any day may bring success. It looks like a splendid opportunity for the right kind of a pilot to connect and grow up with us and our aviation projects.

It was prophesied that the weather for Oct. 19 to Oct. 22 would be severely cold. The weather man got it partly right, for on Saturday morning the thermometer registered 15 degrees above zero, on Sunday 42 above, rising during the day to 72 above in the shade, and it has been nice and warm ever since, which tends to show that the weather man sometimes gets left (miss hitting the nail on the head).

The Friendly class of the Congregational church held a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. Ruth Darby Monday evening. The house was appropriately decorated in honor of the occasion. About 35 people came to enjoy the usual stunts and games. Mrs. Darby and Mrs. Fred Bolton were the hostesses. Fruit salad and cup cakes made with Halloween faces on them and coffee were served for refreshments.

Mount Hermon

Visit to Whale Inn and Bryant Place

A party of about 40 members of the Mount Hermon faculty enjoyed an outing last Monday. After lunch at the Whale Inn, Goshen, and a thorough inspection of that quaint hostelry, they drove to the William Cullen Bryant place in Cummington. Ample time was given there to enjoy the magnificent outlook and to see the interior of the house. The caretaker showed the party through the lower story of the house now open to the public, and Louis E. Smith, head of the English department, gave a talk on the poet's life and his place in American literature. The splendid view from the homestead and the magnificent antique furniture still there surely assuaged the disappointment some doubtless felt on beholding the house, not the hip-roofed model it must have been when the poet's parents moved there in 1786, but a much remodelled mansion of later and prosperous times. The party made the return trip by various routes; at least two cars went by the Berkshire Trail and came back via the improved Mohawk Trail. The outing was arranged by the faculty social committee, of which Paul A. Williams is chairman.

Cross Country Runs

The first event in the series of cross-country runs at Mount Hermon takes place Thursday afternoon, leaving the James Gymnasium at 4.45 p. m., when about 60 men will be entered in the two-mile run around what is known as Holton's square. Mr. Fordum, the new director of Athletics at the school, expects the men will run close to record time, 14 minutes, 8 seconds, for the course of 2.7 miles. Some of the boys have for several days been running better than 15 minutes for the course. More than that, there are many men running who hold records for the five-mile last season. Gordon Kelley and Bliss were among the first seven men to cross the tape in that event; Lynch, "Frenchy" Schneider and Logan ran well last year. The four-mile event will be run off on the following Thursday, and the five-mile will be run on Monday morning, Nov. 18.

The winning men in last season's five-mile race are already taking their places in college athletics: "Irish" Thompson, now at Tufts, has won second place in the cross-country at the track meet between Tufts and North-eastern. Mender is captain of the Freshman cross-country team at Oberlin University, and Glover won first place in the cross-country event at the international track meet at Amherst College.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Heler of New York city and Westfield, N. J., spent a few days at Ford Cottage this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll G. Ross entertained the Crossley officers at supper at the Sweetheart Inn on the Mohawk Trail last Saturday night.

Oscar M. Koehler, assistant cashier, left Saturday for a week's vacation, part of which he planned to spend in New York city.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

Creamed Dried Beef.....36¢
Baked Potatoes.....10¢
English Peas.....11¢
Bread and Butter.....8¢
Apricot Tapioca.....23¢
Coffee with Cream.....10¢

If you could lift the lid of a Pandora-box and find that good spirits instead of evil ones were swarming out and showing you the dishes you could use in preparing a dinner for your family of four for a dollar, wouldn't you be pleased? Here in type is a description of such a dinner, with prices and recipes indicated.

Creamed Dried Beef: Frizzle contents of a 3½-ounce jar of dried beef in three tablespoons of butter for about five minutes. Add three tablespoons of flour and stir until smooth. Mix one and one-fourth cups evaporated milk with one and one-fourth cups of water and add slowly, stirring constantly until creamy. Serve hot with the baked potatoes. English Peas: Add one and one-half tablespoons of vinegar, one and one-half tablespoons of sugar and two tablespoons of crushed fresh mint to the peas and juice from an eleven-ounce can. Simmer gently for ten minutes.

Apricot Tapioca: Scald one and one-fourth cups of milk in a double boiler, add two tablespoons of minute tapioca mixed with three tablespoons of sugar. Remove from fire, add one-half of a beaten egg and the syrup from an eight-ounce can of apricots. Return to the fire and cook until thick and creamy, stirring frequently. Then pour over the apricots, arranged in a serving dish, and cool. To measure one-half of an egg, beat the egg, measure the amount in tablespoons and then use half that number.*

An Outdoor Supper

WHO doesn't want to eat his supper out-doors in the fall, perhaps under the shade of a gnarled old tree which makes a sheltered spot on the top of a cliff above the sea, or perhaps just at home in his own garden. And what fun there is in such a picnic out in the cool twilight air with the setting sun decorating the horizon for your delectation.

Here is a menu for such an outdoor supper:

Camp Baked Potatoes and Sausages
Ham Salad Sandwiches
Bread and Butter Sandwiches
Whole Tomatoes and Mayonnaise
Pineapple and Cherry Pie
Lemonade

Baked Potatoes and Sausages: With an apple corer cut a hole through the center of as many potatoes as desired. Put a canned Vienna sausage in each hole. Place the potatoes in a frying pan balanced on rocks above hot embers. Cover, and put embers on the lid of the pan. Bake until done.

Pineapple and Cherry Pie: Run four slices of pineapple and one cup of canned sour pitted cherries through the meat grinder, add two tablespoons flour and one-half egg, beaten, and cook in a saucepan until slightly thickened. Pour into a small pie tin lined with pastry, cover with pie crust and bake, having oven hot (450° F.) for the first five minutes, then moderate (375°) until done. To measure half an egg, beat the egg slightly, measure the number of tablespoons, and take half that number.*

THAT APPETIZING CHILL

THERE are chills and chills. No woman likes to have another person chill her with a look or a few choice words, but the chill that comes from eating a cold, refreshing dessert on a torrid day is quite something else again—a thing almost too welcome to express in words. Everyone goes in for cold desserts or frozen desserts in the hot summer, and even in the chilly days of fall and winter the cold dessert remains in vogue, whether it be for the family meal or one of the many parties which come along at that time.

For Teas and Suppers

For afternoon teas, the sherbet is the accepted dessert. But just any sherbet won't do; there must be something just a little unusual about it—something to give a filip. And for the buffet suppers which start with Halloween and continue until after New Year's, there are any number of really scrumptious desserts which can be made ahead of time and put in the refrigerator to keep cool until the appointed time comes to serve them to appreciative guests.

The recipes which follow are planned for eight persons and were originated and have been tested by a trained dietitian.

Cherry Ice: Press the juice and fruit from three-fourths of a number 2 can of red pitted cherries through a sieve. Boil three-fourths cup sugar, one and one-half cups water and three tablespoons corn syrup until the syrup threads, then pour it slowly over one stiffly beaten egg white. Add three tablespoons of lemon juice, two tablespoons of maraschino cherry juice and the mashed cherries. Freeze as any ice cream.

Frozen Raspberries: Mash the fruit from a number 2 can of red raspberries and remix with the syrup, discarding none of the pulpy part. Add the juice of one lemon, one-half cup of sugar and one and one-half cups of water and bring to boiling to melt the sugar. Cool. Freeze, using three parts ice to one part salt.

Coffee Coconut Cream: Soak three-fourths tablespoon gelatin in cold water. Make a custard of one egg yolk, one-half cup of brown sugar and three-fourths cup strong hot coffee. Add one teaspoon butter, pour over the gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. When the gelatin begins to set, fold in one stiffly beaten egg white, one-half cup heavy cream, whipped, and one can of moist coconut. Serve very cold piled in glasses with whipped cream on top.

Fruity Puddings

Scandinavian Pudding: Remove stones from the fresh or Oregon prunes in a number 3 can. Cut pulp in pieces and return to the syrup. Add one-third cup of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of cloves and one-fourth teaspoon of cinnamon, and simmer five minutes. Mix one-third cup cornstarch with one-half cup orange juice, add to hot mixture and cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick and smooth. Cool slightly, add one-half cup chopped nuts, and fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into wet molds and chill. Serve with whipped cream or custard sauce.

Fig Tapioca: Soak one-half cup pearl tapioca over night in cold water. In the morning drain off any water which has not been absorbed. Scald one and one-third cups milk in double boiler, add the tapioca and cook twenty minutes or until transparent. Add two slightly beaten egg yolks and one-fourth cup brown sugar and cook until thick. Then add chopped figs from an eight-ounce can and let cook a few minutes longer. Cool slightly, then fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Serve cold.

An Emergency Dessert

Jiffy Dessert: This is for emergencies. For ingredients you need some saltines, a can of chocolate syrup, whipped cream (or marshmallow creme) and a can of moist coconut. Allow three saltines to each serving. Spread them liberally with the chocolate syrup, piling one on top of the other. Top with whipped cream (or marshmallow creme) and sprinkle generously with the coconut.

Peach Hard Sauce: Cream one-third cup of butter, one cup confectioner's sugar, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and two-thirds cup diced and drained (or canned, crushed) peaches. Chill. Serve on hot puddings or on pastries.*

ONE ON THE TIGHTWAD

Mary: "He ran into a streak of tough luck on account of his stinginess the other day."

Ella: "What happened to him?"

Mary: "Well, you know he saved the first dollar he ever earned and the other day he spent it, and now he's mad because a dollar isn't worth its full value."

Coming back strong after three straight defeats and breaking into the win column for the first time since the Ware game last year, the Brattleboro high school football team battered their way to a 7-to-0 victory over the Bellows Falls high eleven on the playground field at Bellows Falls Saturday afternoon. The score did not tell half of the story, for the local gridiron outfit completely outplayed and outsmarted their opponents, and with a few good breaks should have beaten them by three touchdowns.

Art of Coffee Making

There are three ways to make coffee and good coffee can be made by any one of them provided a little care is taken by the cook. But be certain your coffee is fresh, measure it in a tablespoonful to the cup of water, and serve while hot. Do not let your coffee cook; it received all the cooking necessary when roasting.

PERCOLATOR

If a percolator is used, the coffee should be ground a little coarser than corn meal. Packaged coffee can be obtained in the proper grind or your coffee merchant will grind it for you. The length of percolation depends upon the degree of heat applied. This can be determined by observation, but when it is once ascertained, stick to it. Too long or too short percolation affects the taste.

DRIP METHOD

Many devices for making drip coffee are on the market. If you have none, you can use a drip bag with a wire holder on an ordinary coffee pot. The coffee should be ground fine—not coarser than corn meal—and the water poured through while still boiling.

BOILING

Put the ground coffee into the water and bring to a boil. Immediately reduce the heat and let steep from three to five minutes.

THE SEARCH FOR HAPPINESS, HEALTH, HOME, HEAVEN, OR WHAT HAVE YOU?

Elsewhere in this issue (unless crowded out at the last moment by other matter, as sometimes happens) will be found, under "The Word of God", some of the glorious sayings of Christ in regard to little children. Among other things . . . "of such is the Kingdom of God", and, you will remember, the Master also remarked (of the people generally and in another portion of the Word) that "The Kingdom of God is within you." Reverting again to the Scripture lesson we find these still more emphatic words of Christ: viz., "Verily, I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein."

Now, the Kingdom of God means, to most of us, no matter how we might express our thought in the dress of other words . . . just that state of happiness, health, peace and everything . . . that so many seek vainly. And yet here we have its locality given and, at least, the negation of arrival formulated. That is, we are apparently instructed that if we attempt to attain in any other way than as a little child, we are bound to fail. And so, what is this business of "as a little child"? If we can answer this satisfactorily to any considerable number of minds we shall certainly have accomplished something worth while.

Just as one example of the many illuminating things we have heard children say to one another: "If my mother says it is so, it is so even if it ain't so, there, smarty." No need to announce the sex of this child.

As a general rule, boys never question the absolute wisdom of Dad, in any and all ways, even if they sometimes deliberately disobey his injunctions . . . until they attain to considerable wordly knowledge.

One little girl here in Northfield was told by several grown-ups that the wife of this editor had gone away and left him. At first she laughed at the idea as a joke. But when the grown-ups persisted in their statements, and, moreover, brought forward apparently fully corroborative evidence, such as, that the wife herself had told some of them that she was never coming back and so on and so forth . . . this little girl became indignant and declared she knew this editor, that he was a good man, that no wife was going to desert him, that no matter what anybody or everybody said, she did not, could not and would not believe a word of it.

Here was a case where a little child believed against the general opinion of many townspeople (both men and women) whose judgment had been perverted by the usual exaggeration of gossip passed along from one to another. And this little girl turns out to be right and many wise grown-ups all wrong, in this relatively unimportant matter.

As we grow up, all our knowledge (or education) tends, to lead us away from faith or belief in anybody or anything. Once we leave our parental abode, and even before sometimes, we find a hundred conflicting opinions or beliefs about everything as well as much disbelief about anything. Our very senses deceive us . . . we see, hear or reason out things which we find out, later on, to be all wrong. Here is where we differ radically from the child mind. The child simply knows what it knows and refuses to be swerved aside from its main belief, no matter how alluring the theories put forth or apparently convincing the arguments brought forward.

The basic trouble seems to be that all human knowledge is, so far, very incomplete. We know a few things and as long as we keep to these we are right and happy. But when we try to branch out and reason further there are so many items about which we are still ignorant that we soon find ourselves doubting and uncertain with the rest of mankind.

THE PROBLEM IS TO KEEP GOING ON GAINING KNOWLEDGE AND EXPERIENCE BUT STILL RETAIN CHILDLIKE FAITH IN THE THINGS WE KNOW. This is a big enough job for anybody, BUT IT CAN BE DONE AND IS BEING DONE BY MANY. Cheerio!

The Water Cure

Many people when attacked by sudden pain resort to drugs to relieve them, overlooking the fact that one of nature's remedies is available, and if used properly, is often all that is needed to give relief. For sick headache, drink a cupful of hot water and lie down for one half hour or longer. In severe cases, wring cloths out of water as hot as can be borne and apply to the forehead and back of the neck. When one is troubled with acidity of the stomach, chronic indigestion or with any disorder of the alimentary canal, a cup of hot water taken before meals will relieve the trouble unless it is a very serious one. Flannels wrung from hot water and applied to the abdomen in cases of colic or inflammation of the bowels will lessen the pain at once. For all cases of neuralgia, whatever part is affected, try this simple treatment. One of the best remedies for sprains or bruises is a steady or frequent application of hot water. Hot water is also a great beautifier of the complexion, keeping wrinkles at bay and imparting a rosy tinge to the skin by stimulating the circulation, and if there are pimples or any skin eruption, there is nothing better to use than hot water with a little boric acid added, using a teaspoonful to a pint of water, as hot as can be borne, and apply to the face; and for scratches, boils and styes, there is no safer and more effective remedy than this boric solution. A little of the solution dropped in the ear will often relieve earache, and a bit of cotton saturated in the boric solution and placed around an aching tooth will often give relief. In cases of seasickness and vomiting, give toast water, toasting bread very brown, steeping it in hot water and giving the water in small quantities. If you are tired and nervous and still have work you must finish, bathe the face and neck in hot water, and relieve tired or swollen feet with the same treatment.

WORTH SAVING

Amid the cheers of the frightened bystanders, the young man leaped into the lake, swam to the drowning girl and brought her to the shore.

"Such bravery," remarked an elderly woman effusively. "It was wonderful."

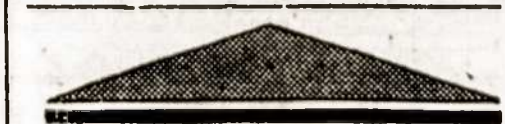

The hero blushed. "Say," he ejaculated. "She swiped my fraternity pin from the Sheba yesterday. I had to get it, didn't I?"

Autumn

The Autumn has come in its glory Of woodland, river and fen; Yet it tells me the same old story, The Winter is coming again.

So give me a road broad and wide; With a view of the mountain side Where a flame of color glows; And the reds, browns and yellow shows.

And come to the river, out of the town To the place where the leaves are falling, With a waving of their banners gay, The leaves of the Autumn are calling.

Sad Accident to Leo Passeneau of Hinsdale

A sad accident, resulting fatally, occurred Sunday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock near St. Joseph's cemetery, when Leo Passeneau, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Passeneau, was accidentally shot by his companion, Steve Masturzeni, who is also 12 years of age. The Passeneau boy was presented a new rifle by his parents Saturday, and with his boy companion was on his way to target practice near the cemetery when the boys sighted a woodpecker. The Passeneau boy crouched to take the first aim at the bird, then suddenly rose to his feet just as the other boy, who was in back of him, fired, the bullet entering the back of Leo's head about one inch from the top.

The town authorities investigated the tragedy and were convinced that no blame should be attached to the Masturzeni boy. Both boys were violating the law and the dead boy had been in the habit of using a gun with the permission of his parents. The county solicitor at Keene was notified. As soon as the tragedy was learned of, Dr. Edmond Lachaine was summoned and he ordered the removal of the lad to the Brattleboro Memorial hospital, where he died about 10 minutes after being admitted.

The body was brought here to J. M. Lamb's undertaking rooms from the hospital.

Leo Passeneau was born in Hinsdale, Jan. 1, 1917, being one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Passeneau, and had lived here all of his life. He attended the seventh grade at school. Besides his parents, he leaves two sisters, Ruth, wife of Leo Gratton of this town, Delphine, who is training to be a nurse at the Mercy hospital in Springfield, Mass., and one brother, Ronald, who is a pupil in the fourth grade. Mrs. Gratton was in Chicago, Ill., with her husband, who is on a business trip in the West, and she left that city Monday morning. Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. Father D. S. Duffy officiating. Interment took place in St. Joseph's cemetery.

The lodge of instruction for the third Masonic district was held at Keene, N. H. Thursday, Oct. 17, for which Robert A. Weeks of this town is the District Deputy Grand Master. Each Casserole Dish A Meal In Itself

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

IN preparing casserole meals, one may combine nutritive value and good flavor with the saving of time and labor. Casserole meals mean a lesser number of pans on the stove to be looked after, and also fewer dishes to be taken care of after the meal.

Such meals offer all kinds of opportunities for variety and a saving in expense as well. In casserole dishes, one may utilize the less expensive meats and vegetables, for the long cooking improves their flavor and makes them tender.

Special care should be taken to season casserole dishes properly—a dash of Worcestershire Sauce, a bit of prepared mustard, or a few tablespoons of chili sauce or tomato soup, add much to the appetizing flavor of a slowly cooked oven meal.

The following casserole—one dish dinners—are attractive and appetizing as well as economical.

Hamburg Casserole—1 pound Hamburg steak; 4 medium sized potatoes; 2 onions; 1 cup tomato soup; salt and pepper.

Cut potatoes in 1/4 inch cubes and spread in baking dish. Cover with one-half the Hamburg steak. Add half the tomato soup. Add a sliced onion. Season with salt and pepper. Repeat, using the remaining ingredients and bake for 1 1/2 hours in a moderate oven. More tomato soup may be added during the baking if needed.

Stuffed Peppers—6 sweet peppers; 1/2 pound ground steak or 1 1/2 cups left over cooked meat; 2 cups cooked rice; 1 cup tomato soup; 1/2 teaspoons salt; 1/4 teaspoon paprika.

Wash the peppers. Cut off the tops and remove seeds. Parboil for 5 minutes. Mix the rest of the ingredients and fill the peppers. Place in a glass casserole and put in oven. Put 1/2 cup of hot water in the bottom of the casserole. Let the peppers bake for one hour uncovered in a moderate oven. Each pepper makes one serving.

Beef Balls en Casserole—1 pound steak chopped; 1/2 cup bread or cracker crumbs; 1 egg well beaten; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon paprika; 1/4 teaspoon onion juice.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Form into balls, place in a casserole in a hot oven and brown the balls. When the meat is brown, add 6 medium potatoes, 8 onions, 1 green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups tomato soup. Cover the casserole and bake in a moderate oven for 1 1/2 hours.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God
This is a living word, and it is light to our path.—Psalm 119:105

Christ Blesses Little Children

Mark 10:13-16. And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them; and his disciples rebuked those that brought them. 14. But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeased, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God. 15. Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein. 16. And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them. Prayer: Grant us Thy Spirit, Lord, that each one of us may be a child of God and prove it by our loving care of children.

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

A FAREWELL TO ARMS by Ernest Hemingway, Scribners, pages 355, price $2.50.

Someone has said, recently, that the "lost generation" is about to be canonized. As far as I know, this is not intended as a pun. What is meant is that, ten years after the Armistice, the world has begun to see the war in perspective and to treat it as an episode in history and a suitable subject for the literary arts.

Fifteen years ago the youth of Europe went out to die. It was an event so vivid, so sudden, so tragically close to the hearts of millions of people, that it could not be used for purposes of fiction. But now time has elapsed. The crowd psychology has faded away. A new generation has grown up who were children during the war. And we are beginning to see things in their true proportions. The time has come, apparently, for the war to burst into literature, for practically every publishing house this season has a book on the war. Some have several. And the "lost generation," those of us who fought the World War, are being held up to the public as heroic and romantic figures. It is all very gratifying. And quite right! I have been thinking for some time that it was a little ridiculous for the public to seek its thrills in stories of explorers and Indian fighters and the Wild West, when all around us were men, veterans of the war, who have had more adventure and have seen more of life in the raw than all these fiction characters put together.

But, as one of my neighbors remarked consolingly, "Don't worry. In another 30 years or so those of you who aren't buried in the cemetery will be unsurpassed. People will say, 'Those were the heroes in them days!' And fight over who'll decorate your graves."

Ernest Hemingway is, in my opinion, the best interpreter now writing of the generation who fought the war. Because he is the most typically American. He derives from Bret Harte and Mark Twain rather than from Zola and Tolstol. His characters take the war with the same casual and humorous acceptance of life and death that marked the American conquest of the frontier. He has a style of his own, the only really original writing that is now being done. But the atmosphere is typical of America, in spite of the European settings. Skepticism, an objective outlook, courage without self-pity or bravado, all are there, and tragedy comes upon the actors in the drama as a surprise, from without, not, as in so much modern fiction, as the result of subjective abnormality. So that Hemingway is bracing where O'Neill and his school are discouraging.

But one of the best things about this book is that the author knew when to stop. Unlike "The Strange Interlude," recently reviewed, the story does not go on to give the aftermath. The reader is allowed to use his imagination as to that. And does, if he has any. The events of the last chapter occur a few months before the end of the war, though the characters do not know that. But soon it will be over and the hero, presumably, will go home. Consider what is before him then. He will be received with cheers, then scolded for being a little rough and odd, and eventually he will be expected to show pep as a rising young business man.

Years will roll by. He will become a symbol, to the rage of patriotic societies deriving from another war. And old ladies will say to him, "I don't see why you never talk about the war. You must have had such wonderful experiences in the army, so in-ter-esting!" Read this book. And then consider the predicament of our hero, ten years later, when he is asked to address the school children on Armistice Day and to tell the little ones "all about the war, making it simple so that they will be sure to understand."

Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness!
Close bosom friend of the maturing sun;
Conspiring with him how to load and bless
With fruit the vines that round the thatch-eaves run.—Keats.

Now Autumn's fire burns slowly along

And day by day the dead leaves fall and melt,
And night by night the monitory blast
Wails in the key-hole.—Allingham.

When You

Telephone

Three factors account for the remarkable increase in out-of-town telephoning. They are—

SIMPLICITY—whether the call goes one mile or a hundred, you may give the number to your local operator.

SPEED—almost instantaneous, whether you call your next-door neighbor or a friend a hundred miles away.

LOW COST—the lowest rates consistent with rendering good service.

The evening period from seven to eight-thirty has been instituted to provide low rates on social calls at the time when you are most likely to find friends at home.

On calls by number at distances above forty miles, the evening rates are about one-quarter less than normal day rates. And traffic records show that a greater percentage of calls can be completed promptly during this period than at any other time in the evening.

Plan your social calls during this seven to eight-thirty period. We are sure you will be pleased with the speed and economy of this service.

Turners Falls

Hosley—Schneider

Miss Gertrude E. Hosley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oortis Hosley of Goddard avenue, and Herbert G. Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Schneider of Central street, were married on Tuesday at the home of the bride by Rev. W. Frederick Addison, pastor of the Congregational church, who used the double ring service. The bride wore blue flat crepe trimmed with velvet and carried pink butterfly roses. She was attended by Miss Grace Bitzer, who wore win-colored chiffon trimmed with velvet, and carried yellow butterfly roses. Mariam, daughter of Cuth Dearfield, niece of the bride, was the flower girl, and she was attired in blue crepe de chine and carried a basket of mixed flowers. The best man was Albert Lehman of Greenfield. After a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Schneider left on a wedding trip through northern New England. The bride is a graduate of Turners Falls high school, class of 1925, and has been employed in the office of the John Russell Cutlery company. She is a member of the Rebekah lodge. The bridegroom is a graduate of the New England Printing School of Springfield and is employed by the Gazette and Courier at Greenfield. They will live on Goddard avenue.

Going Into the Consular Service

Andrew W. Edson, who graduated from the Turners Falls high school in 1920, has recently passed the Government Foreign Service examinations, according to a recent announcement of the State Department. He passed the written examinations last June with a high grade, and completed the oral and physical examinations early in October. He will be later assigned to take a three months' course of training at the Government Foreign Service school in Washington, when his salary begins, and will then be appointed to some foreign post, as vice-consul. He graduated from Dartmouth in 1925 and afterward took two and a half years post graduate study at Harvard, majoring in political science. He is at present in the Landan school in Washington. Edson was valedictorian of his class in the local high school and his father, Marshall O. Edson, was superintendent of the local schools about eight years ago.

The Board of Selectmen of the town of Montague met Monday night for their regular meeting and elected William Schneider of Chestnut street to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Casper March, on the Board of Public Welfare. Mr. Schneider will take his new post at once. A permit has been received by the town from the Commonwealth to construct a sidewalk and wall side of the State road leading from the Perinet property to the entrance to the Broadview Heights. An additional permit must be secured from the town of Greenfield, which is soon forthcoming. Work will perhaps be started on the pavement by the first of the week.

RUNNING SHORT

"Your husband hasn't been home for a long while, has he?" asked a neighbor of the wife of a traveling salesman.

"No, but I hope he'll be here soon."

"Anxious to see him, of course?"

"I wasn't thinking of that, but our last towel has gone and I don't believe we've got a cake of soap in the house."

Watch the sparks—they're the children of destruction.

Teas for Little Tots

IS there a little boy or girl who fails to enjoy afternoon tea—even though "tea" is represented by milk?

And how much more the child likes his tea when dainty cookies or sandwiches appear as the main food. One of the most popular sandwich spreads is peanut butter—the kind that comes in a pail which, when empty, becomes a sandpile toy.

Peanut Butter Pleases

Mothers, too, like peanut butter combinations, for they are rich in food value and easily prepared. Here are a few peanut butter recipes which are just the thing for the little tot's tea:

Peanut Butter Wafers: Cream one-half cup butter with one-half cup canned peanut butter; add one-half cup sugar, and cream again.

Add one well-beaten egg and one and one-third cups of flour sifted with a few grains of salt. Add one-fourth teaspoon lemon extract and roll very thin. Cut in small rounds; press a peanut in the center of each and bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., for eight to ten minutes.

Peanut Butter and Honey Sandwiches: Slice and butter white bread. Spread half the slices with peanut butter and the other half with honey. Put the pieces together, press them firmly and cut in appropriate sizes.

Fruited Peanut Butter Sandwiches: Mash a banana and cream with enough peanut butter to make an easily workable paste. Moisten with lemon juice, spread on buttered bread and cover with another slice of buttered bread.*

School Day Breakfasts

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

THE youngster who is expected to do the best possible work in school must begin his day with a nourishing, well-balanced breakfast.

Furnishing breakfasts which both appeal to children and meet their food needs is often quite a problem. There must be at least one hot dish in the breakfast, and sufficient nourishment also is required to keep the child from becoming hungry before lunch time.

One mother told recently of a novel idea that had worked successfully with her children. She could not persuade them to drink hot milk beverages, and she did not wish them to have coffee or tea. So, she solved the problem of a hot food for breakfast, satisfactorily to both the children and herself, by giving them hot tomato soup several times a week! An unusual idea—but a good one.

The following school breakfast menus are very practical:

Fruit—Fresh or Stewed
Hot Tomato Soup
Buttered Toast Preserves or Jelly
Milk

* * * * *

Breakfast Betty
Cream Sugar
French Toast with Apple Butter
Milk

* * * * *

Sliced Bananas Cream
Hot Rice Flake Muffins
Scrambled Eggs Currant Jelly
Milk

* * * * *

Ready-to-Serve Cereal Cream
Spanish Omelet—Toast
Milk

Breakfast Betty—Heat rice flakes in oven. Have ready hot apple-sauce, mashed prunes or apricots or any other thick fruit sauce. Make a betty in a serving dish by alternating three layers of flakes and two of the fruit. Serve warm—with cream or fruit juice.

Rice Flakes Muffins—

1 cup rice flakes
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
• 1 egg
1 cup flour
¼ cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon melted butter

Sift flour, salt and baking powder, sugar. Add rice flakes, which have been crushed with rolling pin. Add milk to beaten egg, and mix with fork into dry ingredients. Add melted butter and bake for fifteen minutes in a moderate oven in well-buttered tins. This recipe makes 8 large muffins.

Spanish Omelet—In a skillet, cook 1 chopped green pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped onion for five minutes. Add 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, ¼ cup chopped olives, and 2 tablespoons chili sauce. Add 4 beaten eggs, seasoned with salt and pepper. Cook until eggs are done, stirring occasionally.
